Man held in alleged stabbing

BOSTON. A 51-year-old man was ordered held on $50,000 bail for allegedly stabbing a Mattapan man in the chest early yesterday morning in Chinatown.

James Randolph, who has no permanent address, stabbed the 53-year-old man about 2:40 a.m. on LaGrange Street, authorities said.

The man did not suffer a life-threatening injury.

Witnesses told police they heard arguing from a nearby parking lot.

Randolph allegedly told officers that he threw the knife in a nearby sewer. METRO

In a train emergency, T says 'just stay put'

MBTA has protocol for derailments and stalled trains ◐ Best thing to do is nothing until told ◐ Three trains stalled underground last week

When you're trapped underground in a subway car, there is not much to do besides send angry tweets.

Remain calm and wait for instructions from MBTA personnel, said T spokesperson Lydia Rivera.

But if it's an incident that staff might not know about, drop your phone and jump into action.

The T encourages passengers to pitch in.

"[Customers] can depress the Passenger Emergency Intercom located on the train for assistance," she said.

Rivera said MBTA employees receive training annually on how to respond to various emergency situations including medical response and evacuations, ensuring customers are safe during sticky situations.

Last week, two separate T trains broke down while underground — once in Porter Square, when two Red Line trains stalled, trapping more than 400 people below the surface for more than two hours, and again last weekend on the Green Line near Kenmore Square when a car derailed.

What they do

Evacuations
The T dispatches as many workers as possible to the scene, while contacting the Transit authorities and local officials. If necessary, a T driver might seek customer assistance during an evacuation after all third rail power is turned off.

Derailments
Authorities are informed and a power crew and track foreman are brought to the scene to assess. Everything remains untouched until an investigation is done.

Personnel, with the assistance of fire and police, helped get patient passengers above the ground.

While both breakdowns are still under investigation, in the event of such emergencies, the T does have protocol to deal with trapped customers.

"It's the idea of bringing relaxation to a place where people are waiting to go to work or somewhere less desirable than getting away to the beach," they said. METRO

Rap hits a nerve in Newton

Song discusses suburban suicide Roxbury rapper touches on teen troubles Video has 30,000 views

A Roxbury rapper has created quite the buzz with a video depicting one of Massachusetts' wealthiest cities as a boozy, suicidal teen epicenter.

Local hip-hop artist Moufy says he hasn't had any backlash from his video "Miss Newton," a song about a rich suburban girl who parties too much and makes bad choices that lead to her suicide.

The video has more than 30,000 views.

The student-turned-rapper said the subject is one that "a lot of towns in the country can relate to" because underage drinking, sexual promiscuity and suicide are prevalent in today's teen culture.

"As an artist, I was conveying the truth about some things that do happen in high school and college," said Moufy. "Kids can relate to that."

Moufy, 19, said he was kicked out of high school for being disorderly and transferred to a boarding school in New Hampshire. He will attend Merrimack College in the fall.

In the meantime, he has been selling out shows locally, and is slated to appear with some big college-aged rap names emerging in the scene such as Mac Miller and Chris Webby.

With a mix-tape dropping in August, Moufy is sticking to topics his demographic knows about.

"Kids go through tragedy and kids also party," he said. "Some people have different opinions on it, some people don't respect it, but others say it's real life. Suicide is a tough topic, but it is something that does happen."

Three stabbed in Dot fight

BOSTON. Three people were stabbed during a fight yesterday afternoon in Dorchester, police said.

Officers responded to 324 Talbot Ave. at about 2:38 p.m., a Boston Police spokesman told the Globe.

The victims were taken to area hospitals, but the extent of their injuries was unknown yesterday afternoon.

Police are investigating the incident, and no arrests had been made.

Two state troopers helped deliver a baby on the side of a Cambridge road when a couple was trapped in traffic on the way to the hospital yesterday morning.

An expectant Burlington father driving his pregnant wife to Mount Auburn Hospital became frantic when Route 2 backed up with heavy traffic, according to police reports.

The soon-to-be-dad called police, and officers told the man to pull over on the side of the highway.

Police were sent to the scene and located the couple's silver Volkswagen Passat near Huron and Concord Avenues.

The bicycles are coming!

The bicycles are coming!

With bike share program set to launch next week, hundreds of two-wheeled vehicles will hit the roads ◗ Not all parts of city, region will see bikes ◗ Programs show bikes are catching on

With Boston's highly touted bicycle sharing program, Hubway, set to launch next week, city officials have been trying to pave the way for a safe and successful launch.

Last minute preparations are under way, including the installation of bike stations across the city.

City officials said they are still working on securing approval for the installation of the last few stations, but that next week people should be able to rent a bicycle whenever they need one.

"We're still working on it, and I think it's still going to be very, very successful," said Nicole Freedman, director of the city's Boston Bikes program.

Multiple officials said Hubway's launch event is scheduled for next Tuesday at City Hall Plaza.

Freedman also said she expects the program to be popular despite the first phase leaving out the bike-centric cities of Cambridge and Somerville.

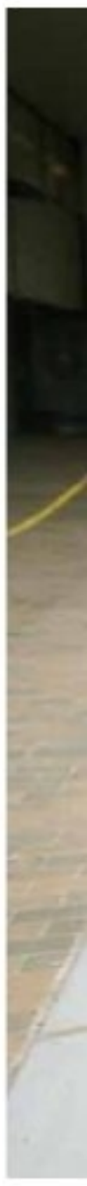
Those communities were also working on securing city approval for the bike docking stations and the program could launch there in the fall.

Marc Draisen, the director of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, which has been working on the bike share program, said the process to coordinate permitting for one program among four different cities has been "complicated."

"The great thing is that everybody seems to want to do this," he said.

Hubway will launch with 61 docking stations and 600 bicycles in an area that covers Allston, Brighton, Downtown Boston, the South End and parts of South Boston and Roxbury. Thousand more bicycles could be added if the program can expand beyond the current phase.

"It'll start in areas that can generate the most number of riders and we're going to build on that sort of in layers," Draisen said.



How Hubway works

- Hubway will feature "swipe card" payments and will cost $5 per day and $85 for a yearly membership. Annual memberships for $60 are being offered for people who sign up before the launch.
- Trips that are 30 minutes or less are free.
- Users can rent bikes from one station and return them at another one across the city. On average, there will be 10 bikes available at each station and an app will be able to tell users how many are available at certain times.

MICHAEL NAUGHTON
michael.naughton@metro.us

Spreading safety

In preparation for the additional 600 bikes that can soon take to Boston's streets, officials have been trying to spread the word about courtesy being a two-way street.

The city identified "high-conflict" intersections where police will enforce traffic rules for both bikes and cars. Police from Northeastern and Boston universities will join that effort.

A Cambridge Police spokesman said officers in that city hand out between 50 and 100 biking citations each month.

Hot ride, hot date? Bike-In Movie in Somerville tonight

If you go

- What: Bike-In Movie
- Where: 226 Pearl St., Somerville
- Time: 8-11 p.m.

There are no backseat make-out sessions at this drive-in theater presentation, but moviegoers can feel good about themselves for not wasting money on gas to get there.

Tonight, the Papercut Zine Library in Somerville is hosting a Bike-in Movie Screening of "Over the Edge," a Matt Dillon cult-classic, and cyclists can peddle on up to the site on Pearl Street and sit cozy on their one-speeds.

There will be a pre-screening picnic on the premises, because a concession stand rife with soda and popcorn is less than likely at this two-wheeled-vehicle-only movie event.

The Papercut Zine Library is home to volumes of independently produced media from around the region, dealing with everything from politics to author's personal memoirs.

Organized by the Zine's librarian staff, the movie is a 1979 flick in which "a bunch o' kids on bikes kick total ass while challenging the dysfunctional and oppressive structures of their community," according to the event's website.

ORLANDO, FLA. An attorney for Casey Anthony would not confirm yesterday whether his client boarded a plane after her swift weekend exit from jail but said "elaborate plans" were required to keep her safe.

Anthony's whereabouts have been a closely guarded secret since her release early Sunday after nearly three years in custody on charges connected to the 2008 death of her 2-year-old daughter, Caylee.

A Florida jury acquitted Anthony, 25, on July 5 of killing Caylee — but convicted her of lying to detectives during the search for the then-missing child. Caylee's remains were found in December 2008 in woods near the Anthony family home. REUTERS

9/11 families want to meet with FBI

Victims' relatives ask for information on ongoing investigation Lead lawyer says News Corp. could be in trouble if even an attempt was made

Relatives of victims of the Sept. 11 attacks have asked to meet the FBI and the U.S. Justice Department to discuss the agencies' preliminary inquiry into reports that News Corp. reporters may have tried to hack the phones of 9/11 victims.

U.S. authorities have acknowledged they are looking into a report by Britain's Daily Mirror newspaper that reporters with the rival News of the World offered to pay a New York police officer for private phone records of some 9/11 victims. The Mirror's report has yet to be independently verified but has fueled U.S. emotions over the wider phone hacking scandal.

New York attorney Normal Siegel sent letters yesterday requesting meetings with FBI Director Robert Mueller, U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder and U.S. Rep. John Conyers.

"I tried in the letter not to accuse anyone ... because you don't want a media frenzy accusing someone if the facts aren't there. We want to find out what the truth is." SIEGEL

The Daily Mirror report said News of the World journalists had wanted the phone numbers of the dead as well as details of the calls they had made and received in the days leading to the attacks. REUTERS

Liability law

The estates of those killed on Sept. 11 or survivors would have grounds to sue the newspaper for damages if phones were illegally hacked, with potentially greater punitive damages possible if the hacking was found to be intentional and deliberate, Siegel said.

Even if an unsuccessful attempt was made to illegally access voice mails the paper could be liable, he said.

Siegel has represented relatives of Sept. 11 victims in a number of cases, including a successful attempt to force New York City to release audio tapes of phone calls to emergency responders during the disaster.

On US debt: Obama has a backup plan

WASHINGTON. President Barack Obama would like to see a comprehensive deficit-reduction package, but is exploring a possible fallback plan with congressional leaders to avert a debt default by Aug. 2, the White House said yesterday.

White House spokesman Jay Carney said that while Obama would prefer the biggest possible package, he is leaving room open for a safety valve to get an increase in the debt ceiling by Aug. 2, when the federal government will run out of money to pay its bills.

"We must pursue a fallback or last-ditch option," Carney said.

He also said there must be a mechanism in place to ensure the United States does not default on its debt obligations.

Obama, who set a Friday deadline for lawmakers to reach a deal on the debt ceiling, held a secret White House meeting with Republican congressional leaders on Sunday — but there were no breakthroughs, a Republican congressional aide said. REUTERS

Lopez 'devastated,' shoots down cheating rumors

The fallout continues from Friday's bombshell (and sneaky before-the-weekend) announcement that Jennifer Lopez and Marc Anthony are getting a divorce. Lopez "tried everything she could to make it work," one (planted) source close to the star told Us Weekly. "They went to marriage counseling. She was patient and loving and did everything he wanted her to. She exhausted all the possibilities."

"They had a very up-and-down marriage," adds a second source/"friend" of the couple. "They would get into heated, horrible fights. Then, they would also go through times where they were extremely loving and romantic. ... It was a roller coaster with them from the beginning."

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

As J-Lo rebuilds and rebrands her life as a newly single mom, "she is devastated," the first source says. "Absolutely beside herself. This is someone she dedicated a long time to, and that she truly loved."

However, there is buzz around the Internet that telenovela star William Levy (aka the Cuban Brad Pitt with a Jewish name) who stars in Lopez's new music video, "I'm Into You," really is into the singer — but his reps are fighting down rumors that the two are an item. "The only relationship there was or is, is a professional relationship," says his rep to TMZ.com. "That's all there's ever been."

My theory? Lopez woke up one morning, looked in the mirror and realized, "Ay! Dios mio! I'm a total fox. What am I doing with this guy?" And then decided to go with someone more on her hotness wavelength.

The show goes on

Contracts must be honored! Despite their recently announced separation, Jennifer Lopez and Marc Anthony are reportedly still doing a reality show together, according to Us Weekly. "'Q'Viva,' the hotly anticipated 2012 celebration of Latin music, artistry and dance, is set to film this autumn in South America with Jennifer Lopez and Marc Anthony as previously announced," a rep for the show's production company tells Us Weekly. "Both Jennifer and Mark are committed to the 'Q'Viva' project and will work on it as planned. The show goes on."

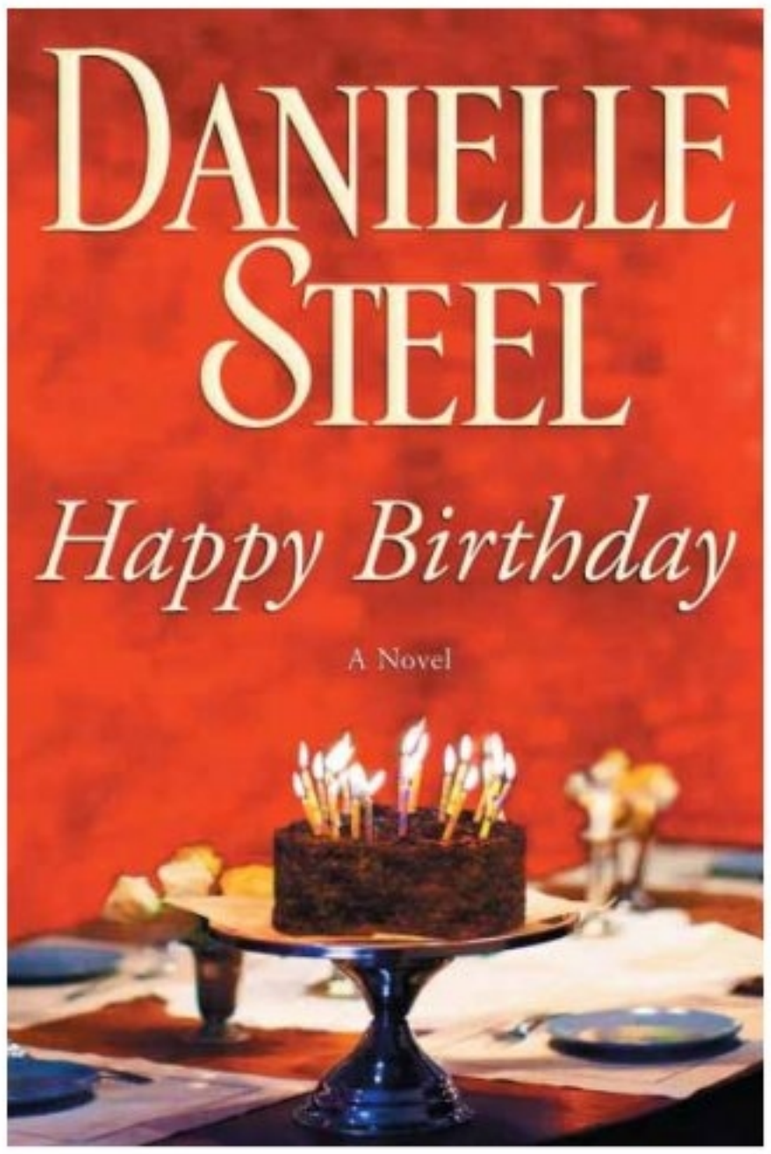
Steel-ing your summer



‘People don’t feel so alone when they read my books,’ says the Queen of Romance ◗ What Danielle Steel thinks of her phenomenal success

What would summer be without a Danielle Steel book? Since 1981, her works have been a near-permanent fixture on the New York Times hardcover and paperback best-seller lists, selling over 800 million copies. Out today is this summer’s tome, “Happy Birthday,” which weaves the stories of three characters who must come to terms with aging. Now 63, Steel talks to Metro about what keeps her ticking.

Forbes recently named you the world’s second-most powerful female writer, after J.K. Rowling and ahead of Nobel Prize-winner Toni Morrison. Is it an honor, or are women-only lists an insult?
I am honored to be on any list, female or mixed-gender, that lists me as the second-most powerful female writer or the best anything. I’m grateful for the respect for my work, whether it is from women or men and women. It would seem foolish to me to be “insulted” by praise. And coming “ahead” of a Nobel Prize winner is pretty impressive.

One of “Happy Birthday”’s main characters, April, is a successful businesswoman, but is about to turn 30 and has neither a husband nor children, which depresses her. Is this such a terrible thing for a woman of 30?
I don’t think it’s terrible at all to have no husband or children at 30 or any other age. Today, people make choices based on what they want. Women who don’t want children don’t have them, instead of feeling obliged to as they did in the past. And if they don’t want children, they shouldn’t have them. And conversely, women who do want children but don’t have a husband seem to work that out today, too. Life today is about having far more choices than we ever did before. The social norms have changed, which gives me lots to write about.

Q&A

What does one of the world’s most popular authors read in her downtime?
I don’t want to read overly serious or depressing works that require a lot of concentration. Personally, I enjoy reading novels, and religious books to inspire me and give me a sense of peace. I want to read something that I enjoy, which I think is why people read my books as well. My characters are believable, and the situations we all live through, the challenges we face — but I try to address those issues in a hopeful way. As a result, people don’t feel so alone when they read my books.

Your books have sold upward of 800 million copies, but literary types look down at authors like you. What’s your reaction?
I’m not offended by “literary types” looking down their nose at commercially successful, “popular” authors. That has always been the case. The literary world looked down at Charles Dickens and said the same about him. History has proven otherwise. I don’t know if there is jealousy involved — or literary ideals. I write what people care about and experience, that seems to work for me, and for my readers, 800 million of them. That works for me.

ELISABETH BRAW
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

Interview

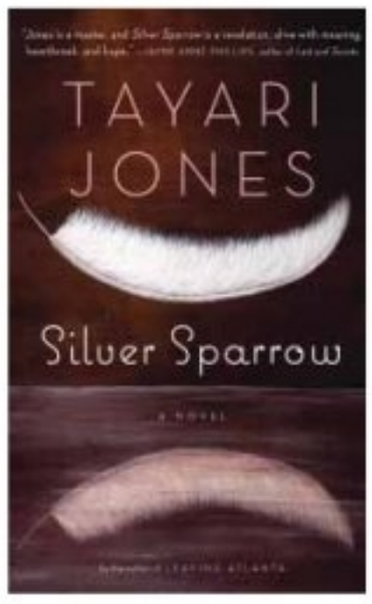
An inside look on an outside family

Arnold Schwarzenegger’s secret child isn’t so shocking, at least for author Tayari Jones. Her new novel, “Silver Sparrow,” revolves around an “outside family.” Here’s how Jones gave voice to a man’s double-life, a woman’s complicity and his two daughters caught in the middle.

How did the idea of a novel based on “outside families” come about?
“Outside families” are such a cornerstone of Western literature. Think about it: All the Greek myths are about Zeus and his “outside” kids. I really wanted to write a story about the complicated negotiations between two families, and I wanted to look at what happens when families are not blended. It happens all the time. This book gives the hidden daughter, the silver sparrow, a chance to speak.

“My novels capture African-American experiences, American experiences and human experiences — because ... we are all these things.”
TAYARI JONES

Do you feel like your novels capture slices of the real African-American experience?
My novels capture African-American experiences, American experiences and human experiences — because as African-Americans, we are all these things. I want to write stories about people who are having sort of ordinary lives — either in the ‘hood or in the Hamptons.



What roles do social class and privilege play in the novel?
The matter of “outside families” is a question of privilege. There is the money issue — of course the “legitimate” family has more resources. But there is the privilege that comes with having a relationship that is sanctioned by the law. This feeling of having the right to say in public: “This is my father” — or even, “I exist.”

Drama makes a house call

Jeff Lewis and Jenni Pulos weigh in on the new season of 'Flipping Out' Who Lewis won't be hiring again

▶ "Flipping Out" airs Tuesdays at 9 p.m. on Bravo.

Everyone's favorite OCD house flipper, Jeff Lewis, is back for the fifth season of "Flipping Out," airing Tuesdays on Bravo. Lewis has a knack for bringing the drama no matter where his real estate adventures take him, and this season is no different. What is different, however, is that this season, Lewis' partner Gage is along for the ride.

"You're not going to see sex scenes, let me just tell you that right now," Lewis informs. "I'm not comfortable diving in too deep with my personal life. Frankly, I didn't even want to go there with the show, but Gage works with me and there was really no way to film around him."

Lewis' assistant, Jenni Pulos, promises "a lot of drama this year" and filled us in on her side career … as a rapper?

"I'm currently working on a kid's album," she says.

"Which will never ever happen," Lewis retorts. "She's been talking about it for six years."

The feisty duo promise that surprises are in store for this season, including the firing of two of their employees.

"One is kind of expected," says Lewis. "And then one is completely out of the blue. Something happens."

And despite what he's learned about himself from watching the show ("That I'm an asshole!"), he insists that the haters don't get to him.

"There's nothing you can say about me that I don't already know about myself. Those blogs don't bother me. There are things that I need to work on and that I do work on. I don't walk into a room and just be a jerk to be a jerk. I always start nice. Unfortunately, in my business, nice doesn't always work."

But beyond the drama, Lewis and Pulos always find a way to make their relationship work.

"We've been through a lot together," Lewis says. "We tell each other what we feel. We might raise our voices, it might be dramatic, but we get it out. We work it out, and that's what it is."

Colleague concerns

When it comes to choosing his staff, Lewis generally knows what he wants (and doesn't want).

"These kids that are getting out of college, they want to be VP in three weeks and they don't get what it takes to be successful. It takes years to achieve what we're trying to achieve. … [And] you can't hire someone that's pursuing another career. If they are not interested in design and not interested in construction, then this isn't a place for them, and that's what I'm learning. And no more hiring friends or family."

Emmanuel College's Graduate and Professional Programs Prepare You for Some of the Area's Fastest-growing Jobs

EMMANUEL COLLEGE

Respond to growth in the human resources sector

Emmanuel College's human resource management graduate certificate and master's degree offer relevant content that embraces the many aspects of what it takes to be a successful human resources (HR) professional. With the U.S. Department of Labor forecasting a 22 percent job growth for managers and specialists in HR, training and labor relations through 2018, a need exists for HR managers who will be capable of responding to ever-changing challenges.

Through an accelerated format, Emmanuel College creates an interactive learning environment designed for adult learners. Content includes designing compensation and benefits plans, implementing reorganizational efforts, developing training and employee communications initiatives, and being a strategic partner for productivity in the workplace. Each seven-week graduate course meets just once per week, either weekday evenings or Saturdays, enabling students to fit academics into their professional and personal schedules.

In addition to Emmanuel's Boston campus, located in the heart of the Longwood Medical and Academic Area, the graduate certificate and master's degree in human resource management are also available in a fully online format.

Join the next generation of biopharmaceutical leaders

Scientists working in the biopharmaceutical industry require leadership and management skills that are often not part of their academic preparation. Through a rigorous curriculum, jointly created by biopharmaceutical industry scientists and management experts, Emmanuel College responds to the unique needs of these scientists by providing opportunities to earn a graduate certificate and master's degree in biopharmaceutical leadership.

Employment of biological scientists is projected to grow 21 percent over the 2008-2018 decade as biotechnological research and development continue to drive job growth (U.S. Department of Labor). Using a case-study approach and interactive technology platforms, Emmanuel's program responds to industry demands, covering critical elements of biopharmaceutical leadership, including organizational behavior, team leadership and project management. Students learn about unique aspects of the biopharmaceutical environment, including intellectual property law, the pharmaceutical regulatory process, creating and implementing strategy, and research in a global environment.

The Graduate Certificate in Biopharmaceutical Leadership is a one-year, part-time academic opportunity for scientists currently working or interested in working in the biopharmaceutical research environment. For those choosing to earn the Master of Science in Management with specialization in Biopharmaceutical Leadership, students begin the five general management courses after completing the biopharmaceutical leadership cohort courses.

Make the connection

A service of Emmanuel College's Graduate and Professional Programs, Employer Connect offers specialized educational opportunities for partner organizations. Through distinctive delivery of relevant degrees and certificates in management, human resource management, research administration, biopharmaceutical leadership, education and nursing, Employer Connect works with employers to create custom-designed partnerships, assess workforce development needs and provide on-site programs that support organizational productivity.

Employers in and around Boston seeking to maximize their professional development and tuition reimbursement benefits recognize the value of Emmanuel College Employer Connect. Current partner organizations include:

- Archdiocese of Boston/Catholic Schools
- Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts
- Boston Public Schools
- Brigham and Women's Hospital
- City Year
- Harvard University
- Natick Soldier Systems Center
- Northeast Human Resource Association
- Notre Dame Mission Volunteers/AmeriCorps

Cambridge College Gets High Marks from Adult Students

Cambridge College

Cambridge College will be nationally known for providing quality, innovative and relevant higher education opportunities through a student-centered and participatory learning model that empowers our students, enriches our community and transforms the future.

-Cambridge College Vision Statement

Between April and May 2010, all degree-seeking, graduate-level Cambridge College students were invited to participate in the Noel-Levitz Adult Student Priorities Survey. This national survey was created to measure the unique needs of adult students. It identifies the importance students place on various aspects of campus life, and measures their satisfaction levels. Among the items that Cambridge College students thought were important (and were most satisfied with) were:

- "The quality of instruction I receive in my program is excellent."
- "The content of the courses within my major is valuable."
- "Faculty are available for students....by phone, by e-mail or in-person."
- "Faculty are fair and unbiased in their treatment of individual students."
- "Classes are scheduled at times that are convenient for me."
- "Tuition paid is a worthwhile investment."
- "Adequate financial aid is available for most adult students."

The Cambridge College School of Education is nationally recognized for breaking down barriers in access to quality education. Students who have overcome great challenges have always been central to the school's mission and enjoy a great deal of mentor support. Additionally, the College has been recognized for serving the African-American and Latino communities in New England, and is committed to providing one of the lowest tuition rates among private universities and independent colleges in Massachusetts.

The Cambridge College School of Education offers master's degree (M.Ed.) programs in education (both licensure and non-licensure options) as well as a doctor of education (Ed.D.) program in educational leadership and certificates of advanced graduate studies (C.A.G.S.). Students may transfer nine or more credits into a master's degree, depending on the program.

Graduate Education - The Ultimate Renewable Resource

Massachusetts Maritime Academy's Graduate and Continuing Education Division offers two unique graduate programs: A Master of Science Degree in Facilities Management and a Master of Science Degree in Emergency Management

Both programs are customized for the working executive and are based on a cohort model where students attend class at the Conference Center at Waltham Woods for 31 half-weekends (Friday night and Saturday), every other weekend over 17 months. The program includes a laptop computer, software, textbooks, case packets, breakfast, lunch and dinner, all coffee breaks and Friday night hotel accommodations at the Doubletree Guest Suites in Waltham, Ma.

The mission of the MMA MS programs is to give graduate students the knowledge and skills necessary to become creative problem solvers and in doing so provide current and prospective facility managers and emergency responders with the personal, interpersonal, and group skills necessary to craft and implement creative ideas and thus reduce the gap between good ideas and accepted practices.

The programs forge home the idea that good ideas are not enough (everybody has one) and that implementation is what separates excellence in management and leadership from mediocrity.

If you would like to apply for entrance into next year's program beginning in the Fall 2011 send:

1. A short (300 word max) statement of your professional objectives and how the program will help you meet them
2. Your resume.
3. Your undergraduate transcript to jmcdonald@maritime.edu

Putting the lock on a new career at North Bennet Street School

NORTH·BENNET·STREET·SCHOOL
An Education in Craftsmanship

Mary Jane was a teacher of the visually impaired, DJ was a loss prevention officer for a department store and Steve was an officer in the fire department. They came from different backgrounds, what they now have in common is that they all completed the locksmithing program at North Bennet Street School.

"If you like working with your hands, solving puzzles, working independently and helping people, you have the skills needed to be a locksmith" says Dave Troiano, head of the locksmithing program.

"Locksmithing gave me the skills I needed to begin a new career" says Mary Jane "I can't say enough about the North Bennet Street School... the program is very hands-on, very fast paced and very thorough" DJ, who runs a successful locksmithing business, says "as a locksmith, no two days are alike. I completed a nine-month program and then briefly worked with another locksmith before opening my own business... It's a timeless profession that is always in demand."

The program is accredited by the ACCSC (Accrediting Commission of Career Schools and Colleges) and class hours are approved to be used toward certification by the Associated Locksmtihs of America. The program is currently accepting students for the next session.

North Bennet Street School, located in Boston, has been teaching professional trades for more than 100 years. In addition to locksmithing, the school offers programs in jewelry making and repair, piano technology, carpentry, preservation carpentry, violin making and repair, bookbinding and cabinet and furniture making.

From Learning to Earning The Goal-Driven Curriculum

UMASS BOSTON

Without doubt, advanced studies which include skill-building units are the real trading capital needed in a competitive job market. University College, the newest of UMass Boston's eight colleges, recognizes this, preparing adult learners for advancement in their careers through the depth and efficiency of a goal-oriented curriculum. Our motivated yet time-challenged, global student community chooses University College for its plentiful online offerings and rich academic scholarship combined with the direct application of study through internships, capstones, practica, and more. With over 35 degrees, certificates and test preparation courses to choose from, most available online, adult learners at University College have a world of opportunity within reach.

You're prepared for the challenges ahead, so consider the following to clarify your goals and the steps to get you there:

Gather the Facts: University College advisors help you navigate the decisions to be made as you prepare to begin your studies. Or pick up where you left off.

Degree and certificate program directors advise prospective students with first-hand knowledge about the opportunities and demands of the discipline in which they specialize.

Prepare Your Mind: For some, taking baby steps is the right approach. A single course or two warms the adult learner to the pace and expectations of university study. Certificate-level studies also complement one's professional development goals– they're short-term commitments with long-term benefits.

Approach the MTEL with confidence, practice for the GRE/GMAT or prepare for industry licensure. Our many test preparation courses are all part of University College's practical approach to career development.

Take Action and Apply: Visit the individual degree and certificate pages for their specific application requirements. There is no application required to register for individual courses.

Course registration begins July 25.
First day of classes at University College: September 9.

Local Students Pursue Careers with Help from Everest Institute

For Boston-area residents looking for fresh starts on their futures, there is career help available! Focused on the success of its graduates, local school Everest Institute provides high-quality training to students at its two convenient locations in Brighton and Chelsea.

The school's dedicated, professional instructors and short-term career training allow students to get a hands-on education quickly so they can be ready for new careers. And the variety of educational paths available at Everest Institute allows students to pursue their choice of health care careers!

Everest Institute's Dental Assistant program teaches students the chairside assisting methods, patient procedures, and laboratory and office tasks needed for entry-level careers in dental offices, dental supply manufacturers, hospital dental departments and insurance companies.

The Massage Therapy program focuses on a variety of massage techniques, including Swedish, prenatal, deep tissue, clinical and sports massage. Graduates are prepared for entry-level careers in clinics, hospitals, doctors' offices, health spas, cruise ships and more.

Students in Everest Institute's Medical Administrative Assistant program learn the administrative skills, medical terminology, medical law and ethics, and medical transcription skills necessary for entry-level employment. Graduates can work in medical or dental offices, clinics, long-term care facilities, insurance companies and hospitals.

Students in the Medical Assistant program study patient care and communication, clinical assisting and pharmacology, cardiopulmonary and laboratory procedures, and more to prepare for their entry-level careers! At Everest Institute, hands-on training in the Medical Assistant program prepares graduates for work in physicians' offices, medical centers, clinics, laboratories and emergency rooms.

The Medical Insurance Billing and Coding program curriculum includes medical insurance, claims processing, collection strategies and more. Graduates can pursue entry-level employment at insurance companies, medical offices and clinics!

At Everest Institute, successful graduates are the first priority. For more information, call 1-888-225-9797, check us out online at www.EnrollEverest.com or visit our Brighton or Chelsea campus. Programs and schedules vary by campus. Financial aid is available for those who qualify.

For more information about our graduation rates, the median debt of students who completed the program, and other important information, please visit our website at www.everest.edu/disclosures.

Passion Comes To Life at The Cambridge School of Culinary Arts

Listening to Roberta Dowling, director of The Cambridge School of Culinary Arts, you may hear her say "You'll never look at food the same way again." If food is your passion and you want to turn your passion into your career, explore the professional world of food at The Cambridge School of Culinary Arts (CSCA).

Established by Chef Roberta Dowling in 1974, The Cambridge School of Culinary Arts seeks to stimulate the senses as it helps students discover beauty and complexity within the world of food. Students are encouraged to explore all aspects of fine food and its preparation as they learn to produce dishes that demonstrate technical and scientific mastery. The education received at The CSCA provides each student with a lasting legacy of culinary knowledge that reflects common sense, diversity of culinary expression, and above all—the notion that food is a celebration of life.

Four unique program offerings make up the curriculum at The CSCA: the 37-week Professional Chef's and Professional Pastry programs, as well as the 16-week Culinary Certificate and Certificate Pastry programs. All programs place strong emphasis on both modern and classical culinary techniques and are taught by a talented staff of chef instructors from around the world. Pastry classes are highlighted by the addition of instructor and Program Director Delphin Gomes, New England's only French Master Pastry Chef. A flexible day and evening schedule allows students to work full- or part-time while attending, and class size is limited to allow for intimate, hands-on instruction. Applications for September enrollment are now being accepted for all programs.

In addition to culinary training programs, The CSCA offers an extensive recreational program for food enthusiasts. These one-time classes cover a wide range of subject matter and are designed to introduce the amateur chef to the world of specialty cooking. Whether you want to impress your friends and family with a gourmet meal, perfect your pie crust, or discover the secrets of a well-seasoned sauce—there are classes to meet every need.

The CSCA is currently accepting applications for the September 2011 Certificate and Professional Programs. For more detailed information about these and many other program offerings, or to sign up for an Information Session on the evening of Thursday, July 28th at 6:00pm, please visit www.cambridgeculinary.com or call 617.354.2020.

We must place fair blame

RE: "OBAMA BEING JUDGED UNFAIRLY": Finally someone understands what Obama has accomplished since he came into office. The Republicans accuse him for job loss? Who was it who lost 700,000? That's right, George W. Remember him? The one who put us in war costing billions of dollars.
VIRGINIA BENNETT, VIA E-MAIL

If only veggies tasted better

RE: "A CALL TO BAN FOIE GRAS": If reader Rosa can find me a vegetarian substitute for foie gras, then good for her. Until then, keep shoving that tube down those ducks' throats, because it is absolutely delicious!
MARK CARRIERI, VIA E-MAIL

Military not the culprit

RE: "TEN YEARS HAVE PASSED IN VAIN": Jeff, the 9/11 attacks were not caused by a military failure; it was an intelligence failure. Blame the CIA and FBI, but not military.
ROB PREMAZA, VIA E-MAIL

How can you possibly blame the military for the tragedy that occurred on 9/11?! Were we supposed to kill everyone who ever even threatened us (verbally, rhetorically, you name it) before they could act on it so that attacks would never occur. Sound familiar? Those are steps toward totalitarianism.
ANDY HALL, VIA E-MAIL

Dems: Put your money to work

For all those Democrats and the president who want to raise taxes on the wealthier among us — just write out your check and send it to the federal government to pay down the debt. Including but not limited to: Mr & Mrs. Obama; Pelosi; Reid; Geitner; any Kennedy; the Hollywood elite; Whoopie Goldberg and her pals. Let's see those checks come pouring in! Put your money where your mouth is! JOAN BACHMAN, VIA E-MAIL

Time to throw down, fellas

RE: "CASE IN POINT: REVOLUTION": So Mr. Flores believes "the very fabric of being American is being shredded" because a handful of our states allow gay marriage. And this is cause for a revolution? The economy, unemployment, war — these apparently don't concern him. But if two people who love each other want to marry ... revolution! MIKE CAVALLONE, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Although you have ample smarts upon which to draw, you could be indifferent to what your common sense is telling you and, instead of using it productively, squander your brain's input.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. If you're putting a social gathering together, select friends who get along with one another. Even one misfit could spoil the enjoyment for everybody else.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Placing faith in your talents and capabilities will help make your lot in life a heck of a lot easier regardless of what you do. Conversely, if you don't think you're hot, you won't be.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. You might find out that you haven't been on as firm a footing in your financial affairs as you thought you were. Unless you take steps to correct it now, things could get worse.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Even if most people you encounter seem to be bending over backward to assist you, one person in particular won't fit into this classification. She or he could be trying to block your path.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Know when to turn off the input of others regarding a money matter. You have a knack for finances, so don't let the negativity of others cause you to go against your conclusions.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. If you are indifferent to your own resourcefulness, achieving your goals may be difficult. Impressive attainment isn't likely to happen by ignoring your smarts. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

▶ Travel to Curacao during the summer and fall months to avoid the December and January prices and crowds.

Where to stay

The Hyatt Regency Curacao
This brand-new, 350-room retreat offers full balconies in every room and an 18-hole, par 72 golf course designed by the legendary Pete Dye.

Perhaps the least-discovered of the Caribbean's ABC islands — Aruba, Bonaire and Curacao — the secret paradise of Curacao is becoming a new hot spot of the West Indies

The color of Curacao

Only 40 miles off the coast of Venezuela, Curacao offers of the most diverse populations on earth — a mix of more than 50 nationalities including Dutch, West Indian, French and African. This is a country that truly has something for everyone.

Why go now

You can get to Curacao through Continental Airlines, which now offers a connection in Newark — meaning you can be on the beach in around seven hours. And Curacao is still a relatively undiscovered gem of the Caribbean, with a sophisticated European vibe, thanks to the strong Dutch influence. Travel during the summer and fall months, and you'll avoid the December and January prices and crowds.

It's my first visit, so what should I do?

There's a great mix of culture and relaxation in Curacao. The vibrant capital of Willemstad, which is a UNESCO World Heritage site, has mind-blowing architecture, museums and shopping. Those looking for more of an escape can choose from among 35 quiet and pristine beaches, all a short drive from wherever you're staying.

What should I be sure to see?

If you're feeling adventurous, check out the private tours on the tiny Curasub (www.substation-curacao.com), one of only three submarines of this kind in the world that is certified for tourists. The sub avoids the dangerous pressure changes of SCUBA diving and offers amazing views of shipwrecks, coral and tropical fish with visibility of up to 60 feet.

What's the best way to spend a day?

Start with a tour of downtown Willemstad to see the Dutch-influenced government buildings and one of the oldest synagogues in the world. Shop at the floating Venezuelan market and grab lunch at Marshe Bieuw, the open-air market where housewives serve authentic Antillean meals. Stop by Dinah Veeris' healing herb garden, and then head to the beaches on the north coast to relax before hitting L'Aldea Brazilian Steakhouse for dinner.

Travel tips

- Cost: Continental Airlines Vacations offers frequent deals on hotel and airfare packages. Check www.covacations.com for specials; recent deals include five night stays at luxury hotels for as little as $599, including airfare.
- One local dish to check out: All over Curacao, you'll find what the locals call "snacks" — usually wooden shacks that serve authentic carry-out like the native funchi — a polenta-like comfort food consisting of half cornmeal pudding and half rice. Or try a Dutch national dish called Keshi Yena, a savory meal of Gouda cheese stuffed with meat or fish. For the more daring, locals say the iguana stew tastes like chicken.
- Best place to grab a drink: The historic Avila Hotel in downtown Willemstad is the perfect place to watch the sun set over the water while sipping on a cocktail made with Blue Curacao, the world-famous blue liqueur.

Pedroia no longer just a 'Laser Show'

After Sunday's epic, he's Boston's 'Muddy Chicken' Yes ... 'Muddy Chicken' You did read that right

Love that Dirty Water? Then you have to love the Muddy Chicken.

Dustin Pedroia was so singularly sensational Sunday night (and yesterday morning) at Tropicana Field, the "Laser Show" just wasn't good enough of a nickname anymore.

"We don't know his real name anymore. He is now the Muddy Chicken," Josh Beckett said after the epic, 16-inning, 1-0 victory over the Rays. "The Muddy Chicken is definitely the player of the game. He got it done when we absolutely needed it."

Pedroia got it done every which way. With Beckett spinning another one-hit gem, it was Pedroia's diving defense at second base that twice robbed the Rays of critical hits. But it was at the plate where Pedroia again flexed his ... wings, collecting three of the Red Sox's five hits — the last driving home Josh Reddick sometime around 2 a.m. with the winning run.

Pedroia finished 3-for-7. The rest of the players for both teams were 5-for-95.

Pedroia's three hits extended his hitting streak to 15 games entering last night's late game at Baltimore. It's his third hitting streak of at least 15 games since 2008. In the current edition, Pedroia is hitting .384 with seven homers.

"I wouldn't trade Pedey for anyone in the league right now," David Ortiz said after the game.

Suspended

David Ortiz was not in the lineup last night.

- It was the first game of his reduced three-game ban for fisticuffs with similarly suspended Orioles closer Kevin Gregg on July 8.
- Jacoby Ellsbury was listed as the Sox DH. But with Ortiz out, more of a burden fell to Pedroia.
- "Pedey has the rare ability to get hotter than anybody I've ever seen," manager Terry Francona said. "Fortunately, it looks like he's wanting to do that."

Ryan hospitalized in Texas with heart pain

All-time strikeout king Nolan Ryan was hospitalized with heart pain yesterday in Houston.

The 64-year-old Ryan, now the president of the Texas Rangers, was "resting comfortably and reports he is feeling better" by late afternoon, the team said in a statement.

The Hall of Famer had a double-bypass in 2000.

He holds MLB records for Ks (5,714) and no-hitters (seven). METRO

▶ Carl Crawford is back.

Crawford returns to lineup

David Ortiz was not in the starting lineup last night. But Carl Crawford — remember him? — was.

The disappointing offseason acquisition was hitting .243 with six home runs and eight steals before landing on the DL with a left hamstring strain in June. He batted .307 with 19 home runs and 47 steals in his last season with Tampa Bay. METRO

WWC final sets Twitter record

Sunday's Women's World Cup final between the U.S. and Japan draw the most tweets per second on record.

The 7,196 tweets per second at the game's climax were more than the royal wedding or Osama bin Laden's death.

The possible dream?

Voeckler himself.

The unlikely yellow jersey holder, who stayed with the Tour's expected contenders through the Pyrenees climbs, is being touted as a possible champion by his rivals.

GETTY IMAGES

But Voeckler's unsure.

"It's flattering, but I don't believe it for a second," he said. "I'm going to fight for sure, but I can't be dishonest: I believe I have zero chance to win the Tour de France."

Yesterday was the second and final rest day of this year's race. Four Alpine mountain stages begin today. METRO/REUTERS
